

Abstract Of The Disclosure

The delivery of voice serve messages communicating financial, personal or other news telecasts may be customized according to the identity of the recipient and controlled by voice commands. A voice service bureau may generate voice messages for individual subscribers according to their preselected interest and needs. For instance, a financial bulletin may be abbreviated from "Your portfolio has declined by 5% this morning, do you want to sell" The subscriber may be identified using voice-activated PIN or other information, or be authenticated using voice recognition.